

Stupid paint

by Adina Rath

Sam looked into the mirror.

The reflection in it stared back with glowing skin, gentle eyes and excitement.

Sam started by preparing said skin, applying foundation and covering up spots.

After dabbing a soft brown on the eyelids, Sam started blending in a more radiant pink. A golden glitter joined the pink as well as a sharp black liner.

To finish off the look, Sam applied some blush and highlighter.

“Samuel, come downstairs!”, Sam’s father shouted angrily. “And take that stupid girls’ paint off.”